The Character of a good LORD MAYOR by Biſhop ATTERBURY.

A Juſt and wiſe MAGISTRATE is a bleſſing as extenſive as the Community to which he belongs: a bleſſing, which includes all other bleſſings whatſoever, that relate to this life; ſecures to us the poſſeſſion, and enhances the value of them all.

He will do nothing that is beneath his high ſtation, nor omit any thing which becomes it. He will not proſtitute his power to mean and undue ends; nor ſtoop to little and low arts of courting the favour of the People, without doing them real ſervice. He will ſtand his ground againſt all the attacks that can be made upon his probity: no man's power ſhall ſcare him from doing his duty; no man's importunities ſhall weary him; no man's flattery ſhall bribe him; no by-views of his own ſhall miſlead him. He will know how to prize his advantages, and to reliſh the honours which he enjoys, as the teſtimonies of publick eſteem, and the rewards of merit. In ſhort, he will in all reſpects diſcharge the high truſt repoſed in him, with integrity, wiſdom, and courage.

Some Magiſtrates are contented, that their Places ſhould adorn them: and ſome alſo there are, who ſtudy to adorn their Places, and to reflect back again the luſtre they receive from thence. Reputation is the great engine, by which Thoſe, who are poſſeſs'd of power, muſt make that power ſerviceable to the ends and uſes of government. The rods and axes of Princes, and their Deputies, may awe many into obedience: but the fame of their goodneſs, and juſtice, and other virtues, will work on more; will make men not only obedient, but willing to obey, and ready to come into every thing that is done, or deſign'd, for the publick advantage, by Thoſe, who (they are ſatisfy'd) ſincerely mean it. An eſtabliſhed character ſpreads the influence of ſuch as move in a high ſphere, on all around, and beneath them; it reaches farther, than their own care and providence, or that of their inferior officers can poſſibly do: it acts for them, when they themſelves ceaſe to act, and renders their adminiſtration both proſperous and eaſy. Great Places are never well filled but by great minds: and it is as natural to a great mind to ſeek honour by a due diſcharge of an high truſt, as it is to little men to make leſs advantages of it.

A good MAGISTRATE, who would endear himſelf to thoſe whom he governs, muſt be endu'd with a publick ſpirit, free from all narrow ſelfiſh views, and diligent in promoting the common good of the Society committed to his care. The welfare of That is the chief point which he is to carry always in his eye, and by which he is to govern all his counſels, deſigns, and actions. To this good end he muſt ſacrifice his time, his eaſe, and his private advantages; and think all of them well ſpent in obtaining it. He muſt be an impartial Diſtributor of juſtice without reſpect of perſons, intereſts, or opinions. When right is to be done, he will make no diſtinction of ſmall or great, friend or enemy, citizen or ſtranger; he will always countenance right, and diſcountenance wrong, whoever be the injurer, or the ſufferer.

Courteſy and condeſcenſion is another happy quality, which never fails to make its way into the good opinion, and into the very hearts of thoſe who are under his inſpection. By this he doth, as it were, leſſen the diſtance between him and other men, and by that means allay the envy which always attends an high ſtation; when he is eaſy of acceſs, affable, patient to hear; when not only his DOOR, but his very countenance [and his HEART] is OPEN TO ALL that have any occaſion to approach him.

Bounty muſt be added to heighten his character. There is ſcarce any quality more truly popular than this, or more ſuitable to the publick ſtation in which he ſhines. It includes hoſpitality to the better ſort, and charity to the poor; two virtues that are never exerciſed ſo gracefully and well, as when they accompany each other. When hoſpitality degenerates into profuſeneſs, and ends in madneſs and folly, it ill deſerves the name of virtue: but in the offices of charity there is no danger of exceſs.

But of all good qualities that which recommends and adorns the MAGISTRATE moſt, is his care of religion; which as it is the moſt valuable thing in the world, ſo it gives the trueſt value to them who promote the eſteem and practice of it, by their example, authority, influence, and encouragement. This is the MAGISTRATE's peculiar province, his moſt glorious employment: to give countenance to piety and virtue, and to rebuke vice and prophaneneſs; to put the laws of men in execution againſt ſuch as trample on the laws of God; and to protect religion, and all that belongs to it, from the daring inſults of thoſe who ſit in the ſeat of the ſcorner.

There never was a time, when the interpoſition of the MAGISTRATE was more neceſſary to ſecure the honour of religion, and uphold the authority of thoſe great principles of it, by which his own authority is beſt upheld. For we live in evil days, when the moſt important and confeſs'd truths, ſuch as by the wiſeſt and beſt men in all ages have been revered, are by licentious tongues queſtioned, argued againſt, derided; and theſe things not only whiſper'd in corners, but proclaimed upon the houſe tops; own'd and publiſh'd in defiance of the common perſuaſion, common reaſon, and the common intereſt of mankind, and of all authority both ſacred and civil. Libertiniſm hath erected its ſtandard, hath declared war againſt religion, and openly liſted men on its ſide and party; a general looſeneſs of principles and manners hath ſeized on us like a peſtilence, a peſtilence that walketh not in darkneſs, but waſteth at noon-day: the contagion of which hath ſpread itſelf through all ranks and degrees of men; hath infected both the Camp and the Congregation. Who knows what the zeal and courage of a good MAGISTRATE might do towards ſtopping it? Let Phineas ſtand up and execute judgment, that ſo this plague may be ſtayed.

Quel portrait eſt ceci? — C'eſt le noble CHASSEUR;
La terreur de l'Eſpagne, et la joye d' Angleterre;
Qui donne à toute Europe, ou la paix, ou la guerre.
Non non, Je me trompe. — C'eſt le fameux BRASSEUR,
Les delices du peuple, un veritable Anglois,
Qui gouverne la Ville, et conſerve ſes loix.
Qui ſe montrant nagueres, en moeurs et en ſcience,
Poli comme un HORACE, à la Cour de la France,
Fut le bon Compagnon de l' Arbitre des Rois.

E. Markam pinx. I. Basire sculp.

Philoſophum non barba facit, non laurea vatem:
Eſt EQUES, eſt MILES, nobile calcar habens.
Plurimus eſt MILES, qui nunquam prælia tentat;
Multus EQUES, qui vix pendulus hæret equo.
Emit ſi titulos, auro ſuffragia vendens,
Hunc EQUITEM AURATUM dicere jure potes.
At noſter non talis EQUES: ſed ſæpius urget
Venator celerem conſpiciendus equum.
Pro patria in celebri MILES gerit arma Senatu
Civica: nam patriæ militat omnis amans.
Magnos qui meruit, parvos contempſit honores,
Ad famam aſcendens nobiliore viâ,
Regalem quamvis humero non ſenſerit ictum,
ARMIGER, eſt, pluſquam nomine, MILES, EQUES.

Hard is the taſk to ſhine in glorious deeds,
Where BRUCAS went before, and CHILD ſucceeds.
PARSONS alone can ſuch a part ſuſtain:
Than whom, the mace, the ſword, the golden chain
A greater ne'er did grace, nor ſhall ſo great again.

LONDON.

THURDAY, Nov. 26.

From Newark upon Trent we are informed, that Mr. Rob. Spragging, a Deal Merchant there, has had 4 Letters full of threats ſent him. One Sam. Drury of the ſaid Town, formerly a Barber, has been taken upon ſuſpicion.——Yeſterday Mr. Bucknall, a Taylor in Black-Fryars, had a Letter ſent him demanding 5 guineas. C.

Yeſterday morn. the Maſter of Sturges's Coffee-houſe, in S. Martin's Court, received an anonymous Letter, &c. P. ——Mr. Gordon, who keeps Sturgeon's Coffee-houſe. His ſervant brought the Letter out of the cellar, to his Maſter, who carried it to Juſtice de Veil, of Leiceſter-fields, who ſent for the ſervant, and ordered him to write, which was judged to be the ſame hand; upon which he was committed to Newgate. D P. —— Mr. Smith, a Baker, the corner of Hanover-ſtreet, having received one, ſet 2 men to watch on tueſd. night, who ſeized a man that ſtopt at the place [mentioned in the Letter] to make water, who was committed to the Gate-houſe. Ibid. — Yeſterday an Iriſhman, formerly Cook at the Ship tavern, Charing-croſs, was taken upon ſuſpicion of ſending threatning Letters, and, after a long examination, was committed to the Gate-houſe. P. —— From Preſton in Lancaſhire we hear, that Mrs. Bellingham of that Town had received a Letter, threatning, &c. D P.

The D. of Bedford has preſented the Rev. Mr. Tuff his domeſtick Chaplain, to the Rectory of S. Paul's Covent-garden. D P. ——We are well aſſured, that the Rev. Dr. Bullock, Miniſter of Streatham, will be preſented to the Rectorſhip of S. Paul's Covent-garden. C. 27.—— The Rectory and Rectorſhip are, perhaps, two different preferments.

Yeſterday the affair depending between the L. B. of Ely, and Dr. Bentley was put off till the 2d day of next Term. P. —— Dr. Bentley is very much indiſpoſed. S J.

From Salisbury we have an account of a Letter ſent laſt week to Alderman Green, demanding 10 guineas, &c. Ibid.

A perſon now in Newgate for robbing on the highway has impeached 2 of his accomplices, viz. a woman, who dreſſes herſelf in man's cloaths, and a young man about 23 years of age: and ſeveral people are gone in purſuit of them into a certain country, where they are gone in order to rob. Ibid.

FRIDAY, Nov. 27.

Yeſterday was held a Court of L. Mayor, Aldermen, &c. when a motion was made in the handſomeſt manner, 'That the thanks of the Court be given to Sir RICHARD 'BROCAS, late L. Mayor, for his diligent, prudent, and 'impartial diſcharge of the ſeveral duties of that high Of-'fice, and his tender regard to the rights, privileges, and 'true intereſt of his Fellow-Citizens, ſhewn upon all oc-'caſions; more eſpecially by giving frequent opportuni-'ties of promoting the good and wellfare of this Corpo-'ration in Common-Council. Which motion the Court 'paſs'd into a reſolution, nemine contradicente. C. &c.

About a month ago one Mary Rollo, Daughter of Mr. Fran. Rollo, of Cock lane, near Shoreditch, whoſe nerves were ſo contracted with the convulſions in her infancy (about 14 years ſince) that her head was drawn down, and fixed upon her right ſhoulder, was cut for the ſame, in the preſence of ſeveral very eminent Practitioners, by Dr. Chiſelden, her Majeſty's Surgeon, and is now perfectly well, holding her head upright, without the leaſt pain. One in the ſame condition was cut ſome time before by another hand, and died in the operation. C. —— This perſon, I ſuppoſe, was cut over the left ſhoulder.

Mr. White, of Bond-ſtreet, has received a 2d Letter, dated Nov. 20. C. —— Tho. Beſt, Eſq; a very wealthy Brewer at Chatham, did lately receive a threatning Letter, requiring 200 guineas, &c. D P. — A threatning Letter was thrown into the houſe of Mr. Ward, a rich Mercer at Warwick, the 22d inſt. D J.

Our Merchants have received advice from Bermuda, that ſince the independant Company of foot has been removed to Providence, which was in Feb. laſt; the Negroes (who are, at leaſt, 5 to one white perſon) have aſſembled themſelves in a riotous and tumultuous manner, and have poiſoned many of the white people, ſome of whom are dead, and many more lingering under the dreadful conſequences of poiſon. Several of the actors of this horrid villainy have been convicted and executed the laſt ſummer aſſizes, &c P. D J.

Laſt night a Gent. was attacked in New Bond-ſtreet, by 3 Street-robbers, one of them held a piſtol to his breaſt, while the others rifled him of his watch, 3 guineas, ſome ſilver, and a ſilver hilted ſword: what was moſt remarkable, a watchman, who was at his ſtand, in ſight, did not come to his aſſiſtance. C.

SATURDAY, Nov. 28.

Thurſ. night one John Trumball was committed to Newgate, on ſuſpicion of ſending a Letter to Mr. Gaudon, threatning, &c. From Briſtol we hear, that 2 perſons were taken up on mond. laſt, on a ſuſpicion of being concerned with ſeveral of thoſe vile incendiaries, &c. C.

Tueſ. laſt, the Green Garter and Collar, vacant by the death of the late E. of Finlater and Seafield, was ſent down to Scotland, to be given, as we hear, to the E. of Moreton. P.

Yeſter. morn. died Jam. Metcalf, Eſq; &c. Ibid.

Thurſd. laſt the notorious Moll. Freeman, alias Talboy, was brought up to the King's-Bench, by a Habeas Corpus, &c. It appeared that ſhe was committed to hard labour, till the firſt day of next quarter ſeſſions, as an idle and diſorderly perſon, by Sir John Gonſon, &c. She had 5 counſel, 3 of which pleaded on her behalf, and made ſome objections againſt her commitment, which were learnedly anſwered by the counſel for the King. The L. C. J. Raymond, and the reſt of the Judges were of opinion, that the commitment was juſt and legal, and highly commended the proceeding of the Juſtices, in puniſhing ſuch vile women; and poor Moll, to her great mortification, was remanded back again to perform her taſk of beating hemp till the next Quarter-ſeſſions, and then to be farther puniſhed as the Juſtices ſhall think fit. —— This creature is ſupported by ſeveral noted Gameſters and Sharpers about Covent-garden, who uſually dreſs her in a very fine habit, the better to get acquainted with, and draw in young cullies, in order to make a prey of them. And the occaſion of her preſent commitment to Bridewell, was for picking up a youth of 15 years of age, as he was running from the play houſe, and carrying him to a diſorderly houſe, and cauſing him to abſent from home, and ſpend great ſums of his father's money, who is a perſon of note in the City. Ibid. To the no ſmall mortification of the Gameſters and Sharpers about Drury-lane, &c by whom ſhe has been ſupported, and who have raiſed liberal contributions amongſt themſelves to defray her law and priſon charges: ſhe beats hemp one day in velvet, and another day in a gown richly trimm'd with ſilver. D J.

We hear that an order has been tranſmitted to the L. Juſtices of Ireland, for prohibiting any recruits to be raiſed in that kingdom for foreign ſervices. D P.

Mr. Colley Cibber, the famous Comedian is made Poet-Laureate to his Majeſty. Ibid.

The Rev. Dr. Baker, 1 of the Reſidentiaries of S. Paul's, and Rector of S. Michael's Cornhill, is preſented by the Dean and Chapter of S. Paul's, to the Rectory of Barns in Surrey, worth near 400 l. per ann. D P.

On thurſday, as her Majeſty was walking in S. James's Park, a woman, ſuppoſed to be diſordered in her ſenſes, abuſed her Majeſty very groſly; upon which a Centinel near Roſamond's Pond, took her into cuſtody; and being examined, ſhe was committed to Tothill-fields Bridewell, to hard labour. W E. —— She was, no doubt, diſordered in her ſenſes, and might juſtly have been ſent to Bedlam.

MONDAY, Nov. 30.

On night laſt week the town of Baſingſtoke in Hampſhire was alarm'd upon the apprehenſion of a man tolerably well dreſs'd, and a woman, upon whom were found between three and fourſcore of anonymous Letters; one directed to his Grace the Duke of Bolton, another to the Miniſter of Baſingſtoke, and ſeveral others to adjacent Gentlemen. P.

We hear that laſt thurſday died at Richmond, Sir Iſaac Townſend, one of the Commiſſioners of his Majeſty's Navy, and had been in that poſt about 24 years. D P.

On friday night laſt Mr. Harbin, a ſtationer in the Strand, received an anonymous Letter, requiring him to leave 100 guineas in the back part of his houſe the night following, or his houſe ſhould be burnt, &c. Ibid.

The ſame day a ſecond anonymous Letter was received by Mr. Stokes, a Farmer at Southwel, in Middleſex, which come in a Letter ſent to one Mr. Gilbert, a neighbour, dated the day before, demanding 15 guineas of Mr. Stokes, and 10 of Mr. Gilbert. D J.

TUESDAY, Dec. 1.

Yeſterday being St. Andrew's day, came on the annual election of the Officers for the Royal Society, at their houſe in Crane-court, when Sir Hans Sloane, Bar. was re-elected Preſident, Royer Gile, Eſq; Treaſurer, Mr. John Machin, Profeſſor of Aſtronomy at Greſham College, was re-elected Secretary, and Dr. Cromwell Mortimer (Fellow of the College of Phyſicians) Secretary, in the room of the late Dr. Rutty. WEDNESDAY, Dec. 2.

The King has been pleaſed to preſent Will. Day D. D. one of his Majeſty's Chaplains, to the Rectory of Topesfield, in Eſſex, void by the death of Tho. Willet. C. — The Rev. Mr Squire Pain is made Archdeacon of Stow. C.

Yeſterday morn. between 2 and 3, a fire broke out at Mr. Biſhop's, a Woollen-draper in Cornhill, which burnt that houſe and another, and damaged the houſes on each ſide. P. D P. D J. It began in the kitchen through the careleſſneſs of ſome of his ſervants. All the houſhold furniture and other effects were conſumed. C. D J.

Laſt monday morning a man went to the houſe of Mr. Hyam, at Boreham in Eſſex, and inquired of the Maid, if her Maſter was at home; who ſaid, he was at London: He then ask'd for ſome beer, which ſhe refuſed him; whereupon he told her, her Maſter ſhould ſoon have reaſon to repent her impudence, for that he would ſet fire to his houſe; and in leſs than half an hour after his barn, ſtables, hay and corn ſtacks were ſet on fire, and entirely conſumed, with ſeveral out houſes. D J. The ſeat of Ben. Hoare, Eſq; C.

From the Pegaſus in Grub-ſtreet.

The honour lately conferred upon one of our moſt eminent Members, in giving him the Laurel, was ſo grateful to all who were preſent, that they have appointed next wedneſday to conſider of ſome proper way to ſhew their great ſenſe of the honour thereby done to our whole Society.
